New Publication by Liva Jacoby, PhD

Liva Jacoby, Ph.D. is the lead author on a recent publication in the American Journal of Critical Care. The article describes a study that examined and compared perceived support among donor and nondonor next of kin deciding about organ donation for their loved ones while in the hospital. The data derive from a survey with 199 family members and were collected as part of two HRSA research grants (H39 OT 00007 and 00119). The article can be found on www.ajcconline.org.